(*) Valid for transducers with burst and test pressure values of > 200 bar

Description:

The pressure transducers of above series are electronically devices, which are powered with low voltage. They convert the physical dimension of pressure into an electrical signal (e.g. current or voltage).

The pressure transducers shall only be installed by qualified personnel and local safety requirements and standards must be met. The operating instruction must be considered as well.

The pressure transducers are maintenance free useable.

There are no residue dangers due to its construction and extremely low power requirements.
